Quarterly fund commentary

After enjoying good performance in most part of the second quarter, we switched the fund to a more defensive position by cutting some credit risk ahead of the Brexit referendum in June. Although we know that we may miss some upside if the Asian bond markets continue to rally, we are inclined to be more conservative so as to control volatility and risks to the fund. With an "all-weather" investment style, we are well prepared to switch the fund back to a full "risk-on" mode when there are signs of further monetary easing by the Bank of Japan, European Central Bank or Bank of England. In terms of currency strategy, we will continue to heavily overweigh in USD positions. We expect most Asian currencies to continue their weakening trends against the US dollar given robust economic growth of the US. We expect the strong fiscal stimulus in China to start making positive effects on the Chinese economic growth in the second half of 2016. The strong home-biased demand for China USD bonds from Chinese investors we believe will persist given the very low domestic interest rates in China. Hence, we will continue to overweight China USD bonds. We will increase exposures to high yielding USD bonds of other Asian countries.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.

Where securities are mentioned in this document they do not necessarily represent a specific portfolio holding and do not constitute a recommendation to purchase, hold or sell. The ongoing charges figure is based on annualised expenses for the period ending 31/08/2015. This figure may vary from year to year. It excludes portfolio transaction costs except in the case of an entry or exit charge paid by the Fund when buying or selling shares/units in another fund. Please refer to the most up to date relevant fund and share class-specific Key Investor Information Document for more information on our funds. Further information on our products is available using the contact details shown. The yields shown are expressed as a % per annum of the current NAV of the fund. They are an estimate for the next 12 months, assuming that the fund's portfolio remains unchanged and there are no defaults or deferrals of coupon payments or capital repayments. Cash income is estimated coupons from bonds. The gross current yield is an indication of the expected cash income over the next 12 months. The estimated gross redemption yield is a longer-term picture indicating expected annual total return. This means that in addition to expected cash income, it includes the amortised annual value of unrealised capital gains or losses of bond holdings currently held by the fund, calculated with reference to their current market price and expected redemption value made upon maturity of the bonds. Neither of the yields is guaranteed. Nor do they reflect the fund charges or the entry charge of the fund. Investors may be subject to tax on distributions.
