Quarterly fund commentary

Bond yields across most markets increased in the second calendar quarter of 2015 as both government yields increased and credit spreads widened. Lower quality bonds outperformed higher quality across most developed and emerging markets although credit markets sold off toward the end of the quarter reflecting sensitivity to events in Greece as well as growth concerns in China. During the quarter, the fund reduced exposure to investment grade debt while increasing exposure to collateralized loan obligations (CLO's). The fund's investments in high yield bonds and bank loans, through CLO's, proved to be the best performing asset classes. The fund reduced US duration (a measure of a bond's sensitivity to interest rate changes) exposure and hedged against Greece-induced volatility through a derivative overlay. Toward the end of the quarter, we also added exposure to Irish and Portuguese debt which had weakened in response to Greece. The fund also had selective opportunistic investments in US municipal bonds. Looking ahead, we expect modest growth in developed markets, challenges in emerging markets and volatility to remain elevated. As such, we believe tactical asset allocation and good security selection will be critical for navigating markets for the balance of the year.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund will invest in derivatives (complex instruments) which will be leveraged and which may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund's performance may be adversely affected by variations in the exchange rates between the base currency of the fund and the currencies in which the investments are made. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The fund may hold a significant amount of debt instruments which are of lower credit quality and may result in large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus. If you are unsure of any of these risks please contact your advisor.

The forecasts and market outlook presented in this material reflect subjective judgments and assumptions of the investment manager or its delegate and unexpected events may occur. There can be no assurance that developments will transpire as forecasted in this presentation. Where securities are mentioned in this document they do not necessarily represent a specific portfolio holding and do not constitute a recommendation to purchase, hold or sell. As the Share Class has been recently launched, the ongoing charges figure is estimated based on expected total of charges. This figure may vary from year to year. It excludes portfolio transaction costs except in the case of an entry or exit charge paid by the Fund when buying or selling shares/units in another fund. Please refer to the most up to date relevant fund and share class-specific Key Investor Information Document for more information on our funds. Further information on our products is available using the contact details shown. The fund yields shown are expressed as a % per annum of the current NAV of the fund. They are an estimate for the next 12 months, assuming that the fund's portfolio remains unchanged and there are no defaults or deferrals of coupon payments or capital repayments. Cash income is estimated coupons from bonds. The gross running (current) yield is an indication of the expected cash income over the next 12 months. The gross nominal (redemption) yield is a longer-term picture indicating expected annual total return. This means that in addition to expected cash income, it includes the amortised annual value of unrealised capital gains or losses of bond holdings currently held by the fund, calculated with reference to their current market price and expected redemption value made upon maturity of the bonds. Neither of the yields is guaranteed. Nor do they reflect the impact of the ongoing charges, the portfolio transaction costs or the entry charge of the fund.
