Quarterly fund commentary

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities continued to rally in Q2, while Asian USD bonds rose by less. There were positive total returns achieved across most equity markets in the region, as earnings improved and domestic growth outlook remained favourable. Greater China's economic growth accelerated in the first quarter, driven by robust exports, pickup investment and solid growth in consumer spending. South Korean equities continued to rally on upbeat earnings, expectations for policy support. In contrast, Australian equities declined as investors grew increasingly worried about domestic growth. As for equity sector performance, the strongest returns came from the information technology sector, followed by consumer discretionary and healthcare. However, the energy and materials sectors lagged as commodity prices weakened. In terms of investment strategy, we maintained a tilt in Asian equities. Our largest equity exposure continued to be the Greater China region as we find many investment opportunities with companies that enjoy robust business models and sustainable free cash flow. In fixed income, the majority of bonds were in US dollar-denominated bonds.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The fund may invest in contingent convertible bonds which may result in significant risk of capital loss based on certain trigger events. The fund may hold a large amount of debt instruments which are of lower credit quality and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.
