Quarterly fund commentary

Asia Pacific ex Japan equity markets ended the period marginally higher, with a marked pick-up in volatility given external uncertainties arising from US monetary policy and escalating trade tensions between China and the US. Despite market jitters, Asia's economic and corporate fundamentals remained intact. The latest economic data from China came in stronger-than-expected, while India's growth recovery continued. We believe Asia will continue to be one of the fastest growing regions globally, thanks to favourable demographics and supportive policies, boding well for sustainable growth of equity markets in the long run. In terms of sector performance, healthcare and utilities led the market higher, with their earnings having greater exposures to domestic markets and being less sensitive to the economic cycle. Asia's US dollar-denominated bond market continued to be affected by the US Federal Reserve's decision to raise interest rates as well as its more hawkish stance towards future rate hikes. In terms of investment strategy, we maintained a tilt towards Asian equities. Our largest equity exposure continued to be the Greater China region where we find ample investment opportunities in companies that enjoy robust business models and sustainable free cash flows. In fixed income, the majority of our bond holdings were in US dollar-denominated bonds.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The fund may invest in contingent convertible bonds which may result in significant risk of capital loss based on certain trigger events. Investments in debt instruments which are of lower credit quality may result in large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.
