Quarterly fund commentary

Most Asia ex Japan equity markets made good gains in Q3 supported by improved macroeconomic conditions and positive earnings surprises. Greater China equity markets led while ASEAN markets tended to lag. In China, a broad-based improvement in economic activity and a better earnings outlook helped lift equity markets. In Hong Kong, banks and property companies outperformed the broader market on expectations that US interest rates will stay at low levels for longer. South Korea's equity market benefited from positive earnings revisions at major technology and industrials companies. Investor sentiment towards India benefited from the passage of the Goods and Service Tax Bill and a good monsoon season. ASEAN equity market performance was mixed with Indonesia and Thailand benefiting from favourable government policy and economic conditions, while other markets retreated slightly. In terms of sector performance: IT, real estate and consumer discretionary outperformed; while less economically sensitive sectors, such as telecoms and utilities lagged. Our investment strategy is to focus on the bottom-up stock fundamentals of companies, favouring those with sustainable leadership and competitive advantages. In terms of fund positioning, we continue to have a tilt towards China and India where we are able to find more attractive opportunities.
