Quarterly fund commentary

Asia ex Japan equity markets rose marginally in Q2. Most Asian markets achieved positive total returns on the back of favourable government policies and political developments. ASEAN equity markets were outperformers. The Philippines equity market rose amidst optimism about the newly inaugurated presidency, while Indonesia's equity market increased due to the passage of the tax amnesty law which should encourage corporates to repatriate money back into the country. The Indian market was also an outperformer, benefiting from the approval of a new bankruptcy code that should help facilitate the timely resolution of private sector bankruptcies. Conversely, China's equity market rose marginally underperforming the rest of Asia as concerns over China's economy resurfaced with some macro data suggesting economic growth is moderating, while South Korea's equity market fell on concerns about its export growth. From a sector perspective, defensive sectors such as consumer staples and telecommunication services outperformed cyclical sectors, such as industrials and materials. In terms of investment strategy, we continue to take a selective bottom-up approach to picking stocks, favouring companies that can deliver above average sustainable earnings. In terms of fund positioning, we maintain a tilt toward China and India.
