Quarterly fund commentary

Emerging markets (EM) corporate bonds returned -1.12% for the quarter, as measured by the J.P. Morgan CEMBI Broad Diversified Index. EM corporate spreads widened (an increase in the premium over government bonds that companies need to pay to borrow) 9 basis points (bps) to end the quarter at 241 bps. Ten year US Treasuries rose 23bps to end at the quarter 2.74%. Returns were negative across regions with Asia and Latin America the worst performers. High yield outperformed investment grade bonds due to the lower duration (sensitivity to changes in interest rates) of the segment. We believe the global backdrop of solid global growth, benign inflation and favourable financial conditions remains supportive for Emerging Markets assets. Furthermore, Emerging Markets macroeconomic fundamentals continue to see improved growth, which we see persisting over the next 3-6 months. We believe credit spreads have room to tighten (a reduction in the premium over government bonds that companies need to pay to borrow), although not likely not back to levels seen in late 2017. This is because we are seeing a process of 'normalization' for broader market volatility, from the arguably abnormal levels that persisted over 2017. We expect the more growth-sensitive high yield segments of the market to outperform in this environment. The most pertinent risk to our outlook would be resurgence in US inflation that asserts upward pressure on yields and the dollar.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives (complex instruments) for investment purposes, which may result in the Fund being significantly leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may invest in distressed securities which carry a significant risk of capital loss. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. Investments in debt instruments which are of lower credit quality may result in large fluctuations in the value of the Fund.

This information is available using the contact details of the issuer and is without charge. Further information on our products is available using the contact details shown. The yields shown are expressed as a % per annum of the current NAV of the fund. They are an estimate for the next 12 months, assuming that the fund's portfolio remains unchanged and there are no defaults or deferrals of coupon payments or capital repayments. Cash income is estimated coupons from bonds. The gross current yield is an indication of the expected cash income over the next 12 months. The estimated gross redemption yield is a longer-term picture indicating expected annual total return. This means that in addition to expected cash income, it includes the amortised annual value of unrealised capital gains or losses of bond holdings currently held by the fund, calculated with reference to their current market price and expected redemption value made upon maturity of the bonds. Neither of the yields is guaranteed. Nor do they reflect the fund charges or the entry charge of the fund. Investors may be subject to tax on distributions. Subscriptions of shares are only accepted on the basis of the most up to date legal offering documents.
