Quarterly fund commentary

Global inflation data remains subdued and there is no evidence to suggest a global pick up materialising in the short-term. Global growth measures continue to come in strong and monetary policy remains broadly accommodative, although signs of tighter financial conditions are beginning to emerge. In the US, inflation remains stable and the likely peak in inflation occurred in July. However, any further US-China tariffs could lead to an increase in inflation. In Europe, despite slight improvement in wages and credit growth, inflation pressures remain muted. Core CPI is likely to remain steady at around 1% over the coming months, while headline inflation should remain, supported by higher oil prices during the second half of 2018. Overall, inflationary pressures are limited globally, with wages showing no significant signs of life and only one country in the G10 space (the UK) above central bank's target. The fund predominantly consists of euro denominated investment grade rated inflation linked bonds. Non-euro denominated debt is hedged to euro as the fund seeks to deliver a 'real' return (i.e. above inflation) in euros. The fund has an allocation to corporate bonds which are likely to remain supported in this environment whilst offering relatively attractive yields versus Government bonds. Looking ahead, we continue to use the fund's flexibility to capture opportunities globally as inflation expectations evolve.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives (complex instruments) for investment purposes, which may result in the fund being significantly leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may hold a large amount of Asset Backed Securities (ABS) (complex instruments) as well as other lower quality debt securities which may impact the liquidity of the fund under certain circumstances. The fund may invest in distressed securities which carry a significant risk of capital loss. Investments in debt instruments which are of lower credit quality may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. A lower inflation rate than expected will lead to an underperformance of inflation-linked bonds in comparison to conventional debt instruments.
