Quarterly fund commentary

A technology-led rout dominated global equity markets in March rounding off the worst quarter for global equities in more than two years. While markets enjoyed a good start into the new year, a pick-up in economic growth and optimism over US tax cuts, global equity markets witnessed a sharp correction in the first half of February. The catalyst for the weakness was an increase in government yields in major markets, especially in the US. This increase in yields was driven by investor concerns over rising inflation as recent data on wage growth in US has been ahead of market expectations, and increased government budget deficits caused by the recent tax cut package. President Trump's decision to put tariffs on China heightened concerns that a trade war could hurt global economic growth. As a result, in the US share prices of sectors that have benefited the most from strength in the global economy saw the sharpest falls. The Market Neutral Micro-Economic strategy performed negatively as our multi-factor stock selection model detracted value. The Global Macro Economic strategy also delivered negative returns over the quarter. Coming into the second quarter 2018, the fund has reduced its long positions in global equity markets and holds long positions in global government bonds.
