Quarterly fund commentary

High yield bond markets delivered a positive return over the final quarter of 2017. This came despite an abrupt sell-off within the high yield market during early November. However, the market's ongoing demand for income and the still strong fundamental position of much of the corporate sector meant losses were quickly recovered. Global equity markets ended the year near all-time highs amid solid corporate earnings and synchronised global economic growth. We think the best fixed income investment opportunities remain in bonds issued by some of Europe's leading banks. Elsewhere we also like some insurance bonds. Outside of the financial sector we think that relatively attractive opportunities can be found in corporate hybrids (bonds that have some equity like characteristics.) Through the equity allocation, we are able to benefit from an additional and potentially diversifying income stream and maintain an allocation of around 35% of portfolio assets. We currently favour a number of companies in the financial and energy sectors.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund will invest in derivatives (complex instruments) which will result in the fund being leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may invest in distressed securities which carry a significant risk of capital loss. The fund's performance may be adversely affected by variations in the exchange rates between the base currency of the fund and the currencies in which the investments are made. The fund may invest in contingent convertible bonds which may result in significant risk of capital loss based on certain trigger events. The fund may hold a large amount of debt instruments which are of lower credit quality and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund.
