Quarterly fund commentary

Government bond yields fell over the last three months of 2018. The move reflected a general deterioration in market sentiment that saw investors seek out the perceived relative safety of government bonds. Against this backdrop, global equity markets also fell, rounding off their worst year since the financial crisis. In corporate bond markets the premium over government bonds that companies need to pay to borrow increased, with investment grade outperforming high yield. The factors concerning investors included trade tensions between the US and China, Brexit, the Italian budget deficit, the pace of US interest rate hikes and the potential impact of the ending of quantitative easing programmes. As at 31 December 2018, 23% of the fund was allocated to cash and government bonds. Within corporate bonds the fund has holdings in subordinated financials, high yield bonds and emerging market bonds. An allocation of 37% to global equities has been maintained providing an additional and potentially diversifying source of income.

Each period starts at the end of the indicated month. The first indicated month may not represent a full month and may start only on the launch/restructuring date indicated in the headline.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives (complex instruments) for investment purposes, which may result in the fund being significantly leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The Fund may invest in a dynamic way across assets/asset classes, which may result in periodic changes in the risk profile, underperformance and/or higher transaction costs. The fund may invest in distressed securities which carry a significant risk of capital loss. The fund may invest in contingent convertible bonds which may result in significant risk of capital loss based on certain trigger events. Investments in debt instruments which are of lower credit quality may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund.
