Quarterly fund commentary

US politics took center stage in the fourth quarter. The new administration brings the prospect of a materially different approach to international relations and economic policy. The markets are assuming a more inflationary environment and as such, bond yields around the world tended to move higher in the period as markets speculate on a more rapid pace of monetary policy normalization. Capital value growth is moderating, albeit investment demand appears to remain high. Trends in tenant demand are positive, but prospect for further rental growth has moderated in some markets where new supply has risen. However, REIT earnings growth is being maintained and being passed through into dividend rises, reflecting confidence in earnings sustainability. A large portion of the global REIT universe is currently being priced at a discount to net asset value. As at 31 December 2016, the weighted average current yield of the portfolio of underlying security investments was 4.2%, represented by approximately 60% common shares, 17% preferred shares, 20% fixed income and the remainder cash. The weighted average current yields on the fund's common, preferred stock, and fixed income investments were 3.8%, 6.5% and 3.9%, respectively. Please note the fund is not managed with a primary objective of achieving a return relative to the fund's reference index.
