Quarterly fund commentary

Developed and emerging international equity markets again delivered positive returns in the fourth quarter, supported by firmer global economic growth, as well as stronger corporate fundamentals. After trailing international markets for the first three quarters of 2017, US equities outperformed international markets in the fourth quarter. In this environment, the fund underperformed its benchmark primarily due to stock selection in the media industry. Exposure to the software industry, an industry not held in the index, also dampened relative return. In contrast, stock selection in the household durables industry and a meaningful underweight to the automobiles industry contributed to relative return. We believe that we are in a period of disruption, where consumer habits are rapidly changing with the introduction of new technology. Technology is changing where we shop, how we shop, how we spend our time, how we travel, and as a result: how we spend our discretionary income. These changes are global, not regional, and technology is removing many of the barriers for global commerce while this is happening.
