Quarterly fund commentary

October marked a turning point for global equities with certain US indices hitting all-time highs before a cocktail of factors saw a sell-off over the final quarter, leading to the worst year for global equities since the global financial crisis. Trade concerns, US politics, poor results from some 'big tech' names, a budget row between the Italian government and the European Union, Brexit indecision in the UK and how hasty the US Federal Reserve was being to raise interest rates all had a bearing on markets. Developed government bond markets provided some positives as investors sought 'safe havens' while concerns over the strength of the global economy grew. The team added two new ideas to the portfolio. One addition was an 'Inflation - Short Pan Euro' idea, which reflected the team's belief that future inflation expectations in Europe and the UK were too high. We also added an idea built around the expectation that global equity volatility was likely to increase from current levels as current financial conditions are not helpful for risk assets. Other changes included adding positive views on US homebuilding companies and US companies with strong balance sheets relative to their small cap counterparts in the US, these were added to our 'Equities - US Large Cap vs Small Cap' idea.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives (complex instruments) for investment purposes, which may result in the fund being significantly leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The Fund may invest in a dynamic way across assets/asset classes, which may result in periodic changes in the risk profile, underperformance and/or higher transaction costs. The fund may invest in distressed securities which carry a significant risk of capital loss. Investments in debt instruments which are of lower credit quality may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The effects of inflation may result in a reduction in the value of your investment.

Important Information

⁴Residual FX refers to risk arising from unhedged currency exposure rather than an individual investment idea.

⁵Expected fund risk - the expected volatility of the fund as measured by the standard deviation of the current portfolio of ideas over the last three and a half years.
