Quarterly fund commentary

For much of 2016, government bond markets have led the broader corporate bond market higher. However, over the past three months, led by US Treasuries government bond prices have started to fall. In turn, this also led to weakness in the broader corporate bond market. A key influence was the election of Donald Trump. The President elect's plans for fiscal expansion raised inflation expectations and cemented the markets view that interest rates would be hiked before the end of the year. As a result, there was very little market impact from the 25 basis point hike made in December. The rise in yields, particularly in longer-dated bonds, provides a more profitable interest rate environment for the banks, which outperformed the broader corporate bond market. Overall positioning remains defensive with a high exposure to liquidity through cash and other liquid assets including government bonds. We have taken the opportunity of the increase in yields to add some interest rate sensitivity (duration) to the fund. As at 31 December, the fund had a modified duration of 6.4 compared to 4.9 at the 30 September. Our preferred sector within corporate bond markets remains financials. We also have an allocation to high yield bonds focused on issuers that we consider carry a lower risk of default. We hold a number of US dollar denominated bonds (the majority of this exposure is hedged back to euro).

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. The fund will invest in derivatives (complex instruments) which will result in the fund being leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may hold a large amount of debt instruments which are of lower credit quality and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.

Asset management services are provided by Invesco in accordance with appropriate local legislation and regulations. The fund is available only in jurisdictions where its promotion and sale is permitted. Forecasts are not reliable indicators of future performance. The forecasts and market outlook presented in this material reflect subjective judgments and assumptions of the investment manager or its delegate and unexpected events may occur. There can be no assurance that developments will transpire as forecasted in this presentation. Where securities are mentioned in this document they do not necessarily represent a specific portfolio holding and do not constitute a recommendation to purchase, hold or sell. The ongoing charges figure is based on annualised expenses for the period ending 31/08/2015. This figure may vary from year to year. It excludes portfolio transaction costs except in the case of an entry or exit charge paid by the Fund when buying or selling shares/units in another fund. The yields shown are expressed as a % per annum of the current NAV of the fund. They are an estimate for the next 12 months, assuming that the fund's portfolio remains unchanged and there are no defaults or deferrals of coupon payments or capital repayments. Cash income is estimated coupons from bonds. The gross current yield is an indication of the expected cash income over the next 12 months. The estimated gross redemption yield is a longer-term picture indicating expected annual total return. This means that in addition to expected cash income, it includes the amortised annual value of unrealised capital gains or losses of bond holdings currently held by the fund, calculated with reference to their current market price and expected redemption value made upon maturity of the bonds. Neither of the yields is guaranteed. Nor do they reflect the fund charges or the entry charge of the fund. Investors may be subject to tax on distributions.
