Quarterly fund commentary

For much of 2016, government bond markets have led the broader corporate bond market higher. However, over the past three months, led by US Treasuries government bond prices have started to fall. In turn, this also led to weakness in the broader corporate bond market. A key influence was the election of Donald Trump. The President elect's plans for fiscal expansion raised inflation expectations and cemented the markets view that interest rates would be hiked before the end of the year. As a result, there was very little market impact from the 25 basis point hike made in December. The rise in yields, particularly in longer dated bonds, provides a more profitable interest rate environment for the banks, which outperformed the broader corporate bond market. We are using the flexibility we have in the fund's mandate to take a relatively defensive position, with around 44% allocated to liquidity (cash, government bonds and short dated bonds). In corporate bonds, many of our holdings are in subordinated bank debt, which we think provide a reasonably attractive balance of risk and return. Interest rate sensitivity is maintained at a low level relative to the broader global bond market. As at 31 December the fund had a modified duration of 2.1.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund will invest in derivatives (complex instruments) which will result in the fund being leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.

The forecasts and market outlook presented in this material reflect subjective judgments and assumptions of the investment manager or its delegate and unexpected events may occur. There can be no assurance that developments will transpire as forecasted in this presentation. Where securities are mentioned in this document they do not necessarily represent a specific portfolio holding and do not constitute a recommendation to purchase, hold or sell. The ongoing charges figure is based on annualised expenses for the period ending 31/08/2015. This figure may vary from year to year. It excludes portfolio transaction costs except in the case of an entry or exit charge paid by the Fund when buying or selling shares/units in another fund. The yields shown are expressed as a % per annum of the current NAV of the fund. They are an estimate for the next 12 months, assuming that the fund's portfolio remains unchanged and there are no defaults or deferrals of coupon payments or capital repayments. Cash income is estimated coupons from bonds. The gross current yield is an indication of the expected cash income over the next 12 months. The estimated gross redemption yield is a longer-term picture indicating expected annual total return. This means that in addition to expected cash income, it includes the amortised annual value of unrealised capital gains or losses of bond holdings currently held by the fund, calculated with reference to their current market price and expected redemption value made upon maturity of the bonds. Neither of the yields is guaranteed. Nor do they reflect the fund charges or the entry charge of the fund. Investors may be subject to tax on distributions. Subscriptions of shares are only accepted on the basis of the most up to date legal offering documents. The legal offering documents (fund & share class specific Key Investor Information Document, prospectus, annual and semi-annual reports, articles and trustee deed) are available free of charge with your local Invesco representative or on our website www.invescoeurope.com.
