Quarterly fund commentary

Equity and currency market volatility continued during the second quarter. The US equity markets delivered a positive return; however, most major equity markets outside of the US declined due to fear that heightened global trade tensions would derail economic growth. Gold spot prices averaged lower over the period. The fund underperformed the reference index primarily as a result of out-of-index exposure in diversified metals & mining equities, precious metals & minerals equities and gold bullion. Additionally, an underweight exposure in silver mining equities and stock selection in gold mining equities also detracted. Stock selection and underweight exposure in copper mining equities and ancillary cash was beneficial to relative performance. The historically low interest rate environment and increased geopolitical risks are supportive of gold and precious metals, although we expect further volatility given the uncertainty associated with these factors. We have maintained our discipline of selling stocks when they hit our target price and recycling cash proceeds to find new investments, but this has become more difficult given valuations. However, we continue to focus on top tier companies with good management teams.
