Quarterly fund commentary

During the fourth quarter, Indian fixed income markets experienced volatility due to a fall in crude oil prices, fluctuations in currency valuations and the release of weaker than anticipated inflation data. In October, the 10-year Indian Government Securities Index yield touched a high of 8.22%, before closing 80 basis points lower at 7.40% in December. However, the fund yield remained closer to 8.50% as around 5% of the sovereign bond allocation was replaced with higher yielding 'AAA' rated bonds. With the reduction of sovereign bond yields, we have also increased our overweight position in local currency 'AAA' rated corporate bonds. The new Reserve Bank of India Governor was able to manage the ongoing market concerns reasonably well. The Indian bond market remains evenly placed and poised to benefit from the positives of economic reforms, a contained fiscal policy (government budget is in surplus), and a well-regulated market. The sharp drop in food prices dragged down the CPI to 2.31%, opening up opportunities for a change in stance along with options of rate reductions during 2019. Indian Rupee has appreciated against other currencies since October, and emerged as the best performing Emerging Market currency, bringing down hedging costs to close to 4.0%. The fund maintains a modified duration (sensitivity to interest rate change) ~4.8 years to mitigate the effect of higher rates.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may invest in contingent convertible bonds which may result in significant risk of capital loss based on certain trigger events. As this fund is invested in a particular country, you should be prepared to accept greater fluctuations in the value of the fund than for a fund with a broader investment mandate. The fund invests in a limited number of holdings and is less diversified. This may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. Investments in debt instruments which are of lower credit quality may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. Investment in Indian securities may be restricted due to the unavailability of the relevant quota.
