Quarterly fund commentary

India's equity market fell in Q4 as investors weighed the impact of the government's demonetisation efforts on near-term growth. The government's surprise decision to remove high denomination currency notes from circulation and replace them with new enhanced anti-counterfeit notes is expected to negatively impact the economy in the short-term. However in the long-term, it should be positive for growth as it raises the accountability of money in the financial system. As regards other developments elsewhere, the details of the goods and services tax bill is still being determined. Also, the Reserve Bank of India held rates steady in December after easing earlier in the quarter. On a sector basis, the largest declines were seen in the financial sector, after the demonetisation decision, and healthcare, on concerns over the results of US FDA inspections. Conversely, the only sector that gained in the past quarter was utilities. We continue to believe India is entering a period of sustainable high growth, supported by favourable demographics, increasing propensity to consume and improving corporate earnings. Our investment strategy remains focused on companies which possess superior business models, industry leadership, competitive advantages and reasonable valuations. In terms of fund positioning, we maintain a sector tilt toward the financials, industrials, materials and consumer sectors.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. As this fund is invested in a particular geographical region, you should be prepared to accept greater fluctuations of the value of the fund than for a fund with a broader investment mandate. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.

Important Information

<sup>1</sup>The Original Fund Launch date shown herein is different from the fund launch date shown in the KIID, as it indicates the launch date of a previous fund that was merged into the fund shown and therefore the track record starts with this previous fund.
