Quarterly fund commentary

Latin American equity markets failed to build on their previous quarter's gains by closing 2017 on a slightly disappointing note. However, for the year as a whole, the asset class recorded healthy returns. Mexico was the main laggard during the fourth quarter with sentiment soured by a rise in interest rates. With a deteriorating inflation outlook, Banxico (Mexico's central bank) hiked interest rates by 25 basis points to 7.25%. By contrast, waning inflationary pressures in Brazil resulted in the benchmark Selic interest rate falling to a historic low of 7%. Chile was the best performing equity market as investors reacted warmly to Sebastian Pinera's victory in the Presidential election. In terms of fund positioning we are tilted towards the more economically sensitive small- and medium-sized companies in our belief they are likely to provide the most attractive opportunities over the long term. In an environment of falling interest rates in Brazil, we favour domestic companies that are likely to benefit from the prospect of higher consumer spending, for example retailers and service providers in areas such as education. The fund also has significant positions in companies based in Mexico, Chile, Colombia and Peru and invests across a wide range of sectors.
