Quarterly fund commentary

While the world blinked in surprise following Donald Trump's US presidential election win, it fuelled the sector rotation in European equity markets, away from defensive areas and into cyclicals. The no-vote in the Italian referendum and the consequent resignation of Prime Minister Renzi had little effect on equity markets. The fund concentrates on stocks with attractive risk-return profiles as identified by a systematic bottom-up investment process which is based on four concepts: Earnings Expectations, Market Sentiment, Management & Quality and Value. This approach can lead to very active positions relative to the benchmark. Looking at the performance attribution for the fourth quarter, the portfolio's sector allocation, a result of stock selection decisions, was the largest detractor from relative performance. Here, the underweight in financials and the overweight in utilities and telecoms hurt. Within our stock selection factors, the allocation to attractively valued companies helped while stocks with strong momentum and low volatility characteristics continued to detract from relative performance. Coming into the first quarter, the fund's largest allocation remains in industrials.
