Quarterly fund commentary

The two key events in the last quarter of 2016 were the election of Donald Trump and only the second increase in US interest rates since 2006, taking the Federal Funds' rate into a range of 0.5% to 0.75%. At the Federal Open Markets Committee (FOMC) meeting on 13-14th December, not only did members vote for a rate increase, but they also raised their projections for the number of future rate increases a little higher than the market was expecting. The election of Donald Trump, with promises to roll back regulation, increase spending and cut taxes, alongside improving economic data and a slightly more hawkish FOMC, saw a sharp re-pricing in short-dated US Treasuries with 2-year yields rising from 0.83% to 1.09%, and the trade-weighted US dollar rising more than 5% over the quarter. Unusually for such a sharp re-pricing in interest rate expectations, equity markets did well too, partly due to increased economic optimism and the usual seasonal year-end rally. Although tempered somewhat by profit taking in the last few days of 2016, the S&P 500 index rose by just over 3.8% (total return in USD) over the quarter. Markets closed with the expectation that there would be at least one further rate hike in 2017, most likely by June.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. The fund's performance may be adversely affected by variations in the exchange rates between the base currency of the fund and the currencies in which the investments are made. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund and the effects of inflation may result in a reduction in the value of your investment. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.

Persons interested in acquiring the fund should inform themselves as to (i) the legal requirements in the countries of their nationality, residence, ordinary residence or domicile; (ii) any foreign exchange controls and (iii) any relevant tax consequences. As with all investments, there are associated risks. This document is by way of information only. Asset management services are provided by Invesco in accordance with appropriate local legislation and regulations. The fund is available only in jurisdictions where its promotion and sale is permitted. Forecasts are not reliable indicators of future performance. The forecasts and market outlook presented in this material reflect subjective judgments and assumptions of the investment manager or its delegate and unexpected events may occur. There can be no assurance that developments will transpire as forecasted in this presentation. Where securities are mentioned in this document they do not necessarily represent a specific portfolio holding and do not constitute a recommendation to purchase, hold or sell. The ongoing charges figure is based on annualised expenses for the period ending 29/02/2016. This figure may vary from year to year. It is calculated after deduction of a partial waiver of management fees paid by the management company. It excludes portfolio transaction costs except in the case of an entry or exit charge paid by the Fund when buying or selling shares/units in another fund. The yields shown are expressed as a % per annum of the current NAV of the fund. They are an estimate for the next 12 months, assuming that the fund's portfolio remains unchanged and there are no defaults or deferrals of coupon payments or capital repayments. Cash income is estimated coupons from bonds. The gross current yield is an indication of the expected cash income over the next 12 months. The estimated gross redemption yield is a longer-term picture indicating expected annual total return. This means that in addition to expected cash income, it includes the amortised annual value of unrealised capital gains or losses of bond holdings currently held by the fund, calculated with reference to their current market price and expected redemption value made upon maturity of the bonds. Neither of the yields is guaranteed. Nor do they reflect the fund charges or the entry charge of the fund. Investors may be subject to tax on distributions. Subscriptions of shares are only accepted on the basis of the most up to date legal offering documents. The legal offering documents (fund & share class specific Key Investor Information Document, prospectus, annual and semi-annual reports, articles and trustee deed) are available free of charge with your local Invesco representative or on our website www.invescoeuropa.com.
