Quarterly fund commentary

Global bond markets produced positive returns for the period against a backdrop of strong global growth, stable inflation and easing central bank policy. The 10-year US Treasury yield ended the quarter higher than the previous, while the 10-year UK Gilt, 10-year Japanese Treasury and 10-year Eurozone Treasury yield decreased. Credit assets were strong during the period with positive returns across global high yield, global investment grade credit, and emerging market debt as investors continued to search for yield. We saw some signs of volatility in mid-November, but the market has since settled back into a low volatility range. Within structured securities, commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) were the primary outperformers, with asset-backed securities (ABS) also performing well as yields rose. Agency mortgage-backed securities (MBS) also outperformed on a relative basis, even as the Federal Bank Reserve began to reduce their MBS and treasury holdings. The fund continues to hold Investment Grade bonds that we believe are attractive both from a fundamental and relative value perspective. We continue to focus on High Yield debt consisting of high conviction issues. The fund holds select Emerging Market issuers that we believe have compelling valuations and tactical opportunity. Allocations to high quality structured products comprise the balance of the majority holdings.
