Quarterly fund commentary

Asia ex Japan equities rose in Q4 given the positive outlook for earnings and favourable macroeconomic conditions. Consumer related sectors are among the best-performed market segments. The regional PMI for the fourth quarter continued to show a good uptrend which boded well for the broader consumption landscape. Retail sales data across the region were also robust. The internet services industry benefited from ongoing earnings upgrades. In particular, the Chinese internet leaders performing well thanks to resilient consumer demands. The consumer staples sector achieved strong gains over the quarter, with notable strength in South Korea as geopolitical tensions eased, and in China where investors have refocused on the long-term strength of Chinese consumption. Looking ahead, we believe that consumer demand will continue to be a secular trend driving growth in Asia. We favour companies that are able to profit from the changing consumer dynamics in the region, which has led to meaningful exposures to the consumer discretionary, staples and internet services sectors. We are particularly optimistic about the consumption story in China and India, where growth will continue to be underpinned by favourable structural trend such as the rising middle-class and robust income growth.
