Quarterly fund commentary

Global inflation data remains subdued despite growth measures remaining positive and monetary policy broadly accommodative. In the US, we believe the weakness in core Consumer Price Index is a result of multiple temporary factors including housing costs and a lack of significant wage growth. We believe there is little potential for a significant pick up in US inflation during 2018. In Europe, despite slight improvement in wages and credit growth, inflation pressures have been muted, with further pressure coming from Euro currency strength. The fund predominantly consists of Euro denominated investment grade rated inflation linked bonds. Non-Euro denominated debt is hedged to Euro as the fund seeks to deliver a 'real' return above inflation in Euros. The fund has an allocation to corporate bonds which is likely to remain supported in this environment whilst offering relatively attractive yields versus Government bonds. Looking ahead, we continue to use the fund's flexibility to capture opportunities globally as inflation expectations evolve.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund will invest in derivatives (complex instruments) which will result in the fund being leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund may hold a large amount of Asset Backed Securities (ABS) (complex instruments) as well as lower quality debt securities which may impact the liquidity of the fund under certain circumstances. The fund may invest in distressed securities which carry a significant risk of capital loss. A lower inflation rate than expected will lead to an underperformance of inflation-linked bonds in comparison to conventional debt instruments.
