Quarterly fund commentary

The fourth quarter of 2017 capped a good year for the fund as all three asset classes the fund is exposed to generated positive returns. Equity markets exposure proved beneficial as five of the six markets the fund offers exposure to posted gains. Hong Kong and Japan equities in particular performed well. The US markets also saw prices rise, but results across Europe were mixed - the UK equity market enjoyed gains, while equity markets on the continent detracted from performance. The latter may have suffered due to fears of the possible market impact a curtailment of asset purchases by the European Central Bank could have. Exposure to commodities proved beneficial for the period as all four commodity sectors posted positive results, with agriculture benefitting from powerful moves in cotton, sugar and meats. Energy commodities and industrial metals also performed well, with the latter benefitting from improved manufacturing data from China, which spurred expectations of demand at a time when environmental crackdowns within the country curtailed production of aluminium. Precious metals saw gains as a falling US dollar and uncertainty were positive catalysts for gold and silver. Government bond exposure contributed more modestly to returns, with all five of the markets the fund offers exposure to having seen falling yields over the quarter.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Whilst the overall risk of the fund intends to be consistent with that of a balanced portfolio of equity and debt securities, this may not be achieved. The fund will make significant use of financial derivatives for investment purposes in excess of the value of the portfolio that could lead to large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives to gain leverage which can potentially be up to three times the value of its net assets. The fund will gain exposure to commodities to diversify the risk of the fund. Commodities are generally considered to be high risk investments and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date.
